

For this project, I gathered and put together all the materials needed to create a product that reads force/weight. I've successfully ran a demo of the project.